University of Pennsylvania in October.

The Salem Times-Register expects to publish soon an article justifying the position of those who believe in "sanctified lives," a reply to the sermon recently preached by Rev. J. R. Bridges. The article will be from the pen of a dilligent Bible student, who is confident that he can produce the Bible testimony to sustain his position.

How H. E. Register returned westerday.

Hon. H. E Blair returned yesterday from Radford, where he heard a con-tested election case arising in Radford. The election which was recently beld was declared in favor of having no license by a majority of ten. Upon the box containing the ballots being opened it was found that there were thirty majority in favor of having license. After hearing all the evidence the judge decreed that a new election be

F. T. Carper has resigned the position F. T. Carper has resigned the position he held with the Salem Hardware Company, of this place, to attend the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College at Blacksburg. Frank is to be assistant director of the college band and will no doubt be quite an invaluable member of the band. He will be greatly missed by his friends here and greatly missed by his friends here, and especially the Salem seranading quartette, of which he was an efficient member. His position at the hardware store has been filled by Mr. Taylor.

The following is the extent of business transacted in the county court: The case of commonwealth vs. Margurete Penn, charged with a felony, was tried before a jury who, after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict finding the prisoner guilty of assault and bat-tery, and fixed her fine at $40. On mo-tion, the court set the verdict aside as "contrary to law and evidence," whereupon the commonwealth's attorney, by leave of the court, entered a "noile prosequi," and the prisoner was discharged. A motion on behalf of the Scottish Investment Company, asking the correction of an excessive assessment of property at Norwich, known as the Bridgewater Carriage Building, was docketed.

The following is an extract from the Salem Times-Register of yesterday:
"The Salem correspondent of the THE ROANOKE TIMES had the following in Tuesday's paper: It is said that a gentleman from Roanoke, who has an intesest in the Virginia Brewing Company of that place, just to show the "faisity of local option in Salem," sat in front of Hotel Duyal Saturday evening and had forty-nine bottles of beer and thirteen half-pint bottles of whiskey brought to him by colored boys, whom he had stopped and told to get the liquor for him.

"That man, we guess, was none other than the jucorrigible Waller Pecahontas Huff, and no doubt if the real facts were known Waller brought his beer and whiskey over from Roanoke and stored it where he could send runners after it.
It was done to show the 'folly of local option,' of course, but it was too plain to deceive. It was overdone, so to speak. But the grand jury looked into it all the same, all to no purpose, how-ever, for Waller did not know any of the people from whom he got his abundant supply. It is safe to say, however, that it was only a great big bluff, and that the law was not violated here to the extent that the above item would make it appear.'

THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other dis-eases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incura-ble. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and pre-scribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment. pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional proven caterrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. PERPETUAL MOTION MACHINES

The Ever Failing, Never Ending Search For Such Mechanical Contrivance

Closely allied to the periodically recurring claims for the production of perpetual motion are the class of exhibitions which have been profitable to their inventors by organizing companies through active promoters, upon evidence, for instance, that a few drops of water can produce a pressure of 10,000 pounds per square inch, as though this was tantamount to the performance of a useful amount of work.

Again, there is the line of pseudo experimentation, based upon the oft repeated assertion that harmony of sound can set up such motion as to produce large mechanical effects, such as the rotacion of machines, or act with explosive power in guns. All such devices may properly be considered as perpetual motion machines, for in such cases the power manifested is much greater than that required for its initiation, and it must follow that the machine, after supplying itself with such initiatory excitement, will have much surplus energy left over for useful purposes, if the facts are as stated. In fact, such surplus energy has been looked for by the promoters, but has not yet so far revealed itself as to render feasible the construction of machines of practical use and commercial value.

The means to carry on exhibitions of such reputed inventions are obtained from widely scattered sources. Generally those who have furnished the capital are not interested in the exposure of the frauds or do not realize that advantage is being taken of their credulity. while those who are not pecuniarily interested are afforded no opportunity to prove the correctness of their assumption as to the fraudulent nature of the display. The floating of such schemes is much too easy, as the ordinary tendency of the human mind is to freely believe that remarkable results may be obtained from modern scientific methods. This faith leads many to venture at least small investments, in the hope that large returns will be realized, and I fear this tendency will continue to exist as long as faith without reason is dominant in many minds.—Professor Coleman Sellers in Cassier's Magazine.

QUEER FINANCIAL METHODS.

How the Daily Routine of Banking Is Conducted In Marseilles.

We had to make our way through a crowd occupying a large room or small hall in which business was conducted. This hall was filled with people, some of whom were there to look after their own or other people's affairs, and others of whom had obviously dropped in for a casual chat. Almost all were smoking cigarettes, an amusement which they shared with a good many of the bank clerks. When we had got through this crowd, my friend and host presented his check at a guichet. The man behind the guichet gave him a metal disk stamped with a number. Armed with this, my friend made his way to another guichet,. behind which stood not a clerk, but an ordinary porter wearing the livery of the bank. This porter had his hands full of similar metal disks. After a weary waiting he called out the number -say, 302-on my friend's disk.

Then my friend advanced, identifying his check by another number obtained at the first guichet, and then received his money, not in the currency or form which he wished for, but in such shape as the porter had at hand to dispense from the authorities above him. Then, some of the notes being only locally negotiable, my friend had to go to a third guichet to see if they could be changed into negotiable notes. On occasions this is impossible, and the unfortunate holder of the check has either to leave part of the money he has come for until a favorable opportunity or accept what he can get on the chance of paying it away or getting it changed or both with some of his tradespeople. Beyond this there is no clearing house system. Each bank makes a charge for cashing a check on another bank, and these charges practically swallow up the tiny amount of interest nominally allowed on a con-stant balance. And this is how the daily routine of banking is conducted in the first bank of Marseilles. - Longman's

Women's Wages.

The New York Sun says that during the last two years there has been a steady decrease in the wages of women, and it seems likely to go further. There are several causes for the decrease. For one thing, men are now entering employments which formerly belonged exclusively to women. These men are mostly Poles, Hungarians and Italians, who will work for the smallest of wages. Foreign women are also coming in and accepting wages which American women cannot think of taking. Employers resort to various methods for foreing down wages. During the holidays they take on cheap help, and when the rush is over keep the new girls and drop the old employees. Many women are said to be working for from 30 to 60 cents per day, and the army of unemployed is steadily increasing .-

Mary Anderson's Experiences.

The forthcoming reminiscences of Mary Anderson's life on the stage and her impressions through her professional career will be eagerly received and should be read by all stagestruck young women. If a woman of "our Mary's" genius, and one who achieved the success before the footlights that she did, can declare, as she does, that the day when she voluntarily turned her back upon it all and left the stage forever was the happiest she had seen, what can the boards offer other women?-

COUNT ITO'S HEROIC WIFE.

Dragged by the Hair, She Would Not Betray Her Lover.

Of Count Ito, the distinguished Japanese statesman, Sir Edwin Arnold gives this interesting incident: "I sat at table with the ex-premier and his wife and children. The countess, quiet, gentle, motherly and wearing spectacles, carving the tai and the kamo with such matronly serenity, had yet a history of romance and devotion which could make the wildest fictionist's fortune.

"Long ago in those dark and bloody days when the minister was her lover and a fugitive from his enemies there came a time when they had tracked him to her house and had chosen a band of Soshis to assassinate him. The noise of their clogs and the rattling of their scabbards were heard, and the count, trapped like a stag in his mountain pleasance, drew his Bizen blade and prepared to die as a Japanese lord should amid a circle of dead focs. But while he murmured 'Saganore!' and knitted his fingers around the shark skin hilt of his sword that brave lady whose guest I was whispered: 'Do not die. There is hope still.' Upon which she removed the hibachi, or firebox, over which they were sitting, and lifting up the matting and planks beneath induced her lover to conceal himself in the hollow space which exists under the floor of all Japanese homes. The murderers broke into the room, a ferocious band, just as the firebox had been replaced, and the countess had assumed a position of nonchalance.

"They demanded their victim, and when she protested against their intru-sion and bade them search if they wanted Ito, the wretches dragged her around the apartment by her long, beautiful black hair, now touched with silver, and grievously maltreated her, but could not shake her resolute fidelity. Thanks to this, Count Ito, the hero of many another strange adventure, escaped from the chief peril of his career and has lived to give his country a new constitution and to be one of the fore most and best respected statesmen of modern Japan."

Points on Advertising!

Occasional advertising will bring occasional business-constant advertising brings constant business.

It's a bad way to test the value of advertising by advertising something people don't want.

Your advertisement is the news from your store. See that it is readable enough to command more than a casual glance.
